

Henry Irving is so pressed for time that he can not visit Milwaukee. Three thousand dollars a night could not take him to that city.

One congressman is of the opinion that congress will provide for the redemption of the trade dollar at par. Congress is apt to do a good many queer things, but that is not one of them.

The democratic party is very peculiarly situated regarding the tariff. It is for both free trade and protection. This is about the position Douglas once held. He was for freedom and yet he was for slavery.

The Inter Ocean thinks that Mr. Blaine may not allow the use of his name for president, but it is very certain he and his friends will exert a large influence and have a good deal to say as to who the man shall be.

Well, after ex-congressman Ignatius Donnelly of Minnesota, proved to us that there was once a large island called Alabamus, he will now write a book and prove to us conclusively that Bacon wrote Shakespeare.

A word in the right direction from the Philadelphia Bulletin: "The Brooklyn party can look with equanimity and satisfaction upon the blunders of the democrats during the past month. If their embarrassment was unexpected before congress met it has lately become numinously apparent. There is no harmony, no leader, no guiding principle. The old cry, 'turn the rascals out, and send upon the breeze and is heard no more."

There is still plenty of room in Texas. There are three times more acres of land in that state than in Wisconsin, while the two states contain about the same population. The last census gave Texas a total population of 1,591,749, of which 837,840 were males and 753,909 females, Nativo-born, 1,477,173; foreign-born, 114,616; whites, 1,397,295; colored, 394,512. The area of the state includes 153,429,160 acres, of which only 6,841,705 acres are under cultivation, and 46,202,500 are covered with timber." What Texas most needs at present are more sheep, cattle and industrial farmers, and fewer politicians and oilmen.

Complaint comes from Washington that times are dull there—that is, that society can't get started in its usual gaily way of giving dinners and receptions. Washington is naturally a dull town unless there is a social strife. Congress doesn't give it much life, if society is sluggish and everybody is holding back, one waiting for the other to get started. It is said the president is responsible for this lamentable state of things. He doesn't light up the white house from top to bottom, but has tables with tempting refreshments, and invite the public to see him. Grant used to do that frequently, and once in a while when Mr. Hayes had a chance to get things cheap, he likewise gave a reception. Of course President Arthur has done something in the line of putting life in Washington society, but he is slow this season. Time is on its high, the winter is swiftly passing away, and actually Washington people have had no brilliant receptions or sumptuous dinners. This is a bad condition of things for the country. Those who go to Washington to sit in congress and spend their salaries in having lots of fun, are sorely disappointed so far.

Talk about cheek—the notorious southern cheek—the most brazen piece of that comedy we have seen for some time is found in the Florida Times-Union, published at Jacksonville, a late copy of which has been handed to us by our friend Mr. H. S. Woodard. In an editorial on "The Vital Question," the editor says:

"This, then, is the question before the country: How shall the taxes be reduced? In answer to it, the democrats say, Let us compel whisky and tobacco to bear their share of the burden, and this will enable us to reduce the cost of sugar, blankets, clothing, hats, agricultural implements and the like. The republicans say, let us have free whisky and natural tobacco, and thus keep up the prices of sugar, clothing, blankets and other necessities."

The Florida editor had said that during the war the south was loyal and the north disloyal, it could not have got far from the truth than he did in the paragraph given above. But then this is a fair specimen of southern cheek and southern lying. It is the way they run politics in that country and the way they blind the people regarding the status of the political parties on the questions before the country.

The encampment which meets here tomorrow will be one of the largest ever held in the United States, outside of New York and Pennsylvania. The Milwaukee Sentinel says the principal legislation which will come up for consideration will be a request to the national encampment for a change of ritual, and the plan for memorializing congress to build homes for soldiers' widows in every state, in accordance with the plan first suggested by Col. J. A. Watrous, of Milwaukee. In giving a brief history of the department the Sentinel says: Up to the reunion of 1850 there was little growth. Previously there were only two or three posts in the state, and these were not very thrifty. The year succeeding the order began to grow, and when the department encampment met in this city two years ago last December, there were twenty-seven posts in the state, with a collective membership of about 700. The next year, when Col. Enoch, of Waukesha, was placed at the head, the order nearly doubled its membership and the number of posts. At Portage, last January, sixty posts, with a membership of 2,500, were represented. The present commander, Phil Cheek, Jr., of Eau Claire, has been unprecedentedly successful, having recruited matters and obtained an excel-roster of all members. There are now 125 posts, and a dozen more will be mustered in within the next two weeks, with a combined membership of about 6,000.

FORFEITED GRANTS.

Payson's Report on the Texas Pacific Land Grant Adopted.

And Ordered Submitted to the House.—Some of Its Points—Other Matters of Interest.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—At a special meeting of the house committee on public lands, Representative Payson's report in favor of declaring the forfeiture of the Texas Pacific land grant was unanimously adopted, and he was directed to submit it to the house immediately. The report is an extensive document of nearly fifty printed pages. It discusses the various legal questions involved, and is so constructed that it will probably agree with little or no opposition the house. Judge Payson has devoted a great deal of time to the question of land grant forfeitures, and is probably more familiar with the general subject than any other member of congress. This fact is acknowledged by the members of the committee, who, as a unit, both Democratic and Republican, heartily endorse his views. The bill, which the report accompanies, after declaring the forfeiture of the grant confirms all patents issued to date by local land offices along the line of the road as constructed by the Southern Pacific company. The seven Huntington letters are reproduced, and laws are quoted to show that the Texas Pacific, in not constructing its road in the time required by law, did not possess the grant, hence could not transfer it to the Southern Pacific company. Under the grant the Texas Pacific company was required to commence the construction of its road simultaneously at San Diego, Cal., and from a point at or near Marshall, Tex., and to complete the entire road within ten years after the passage of the act, which was done in the time required. According to Payson, the bill, if not being done, the report holds that the title of the Texas Pacific to the land grant ceased. The vote on Representative Payson's resolution, directing the committee on public lands to report a bill declaring the forfeiture of unearned land grants, is construed by many members to indicate a disposition on the part of the house to pass the forfeiture bill without delay.

Congressional Record.

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 22.—In the senate several petitions were presented asking an investigation of the divorce legislation of the respective states and others praying for a law to give extrajurisdictional power to the courts of the United States. In some cases the petitions were signed by the Mexican friends with open date, was done. Blanche introduced a bill to amend the act granting lands to the Union and Central Pacific roads, and to send to the United States the indebtedness of the companies. Morgan offered a resolution, which was agreed to, that the committee on foreign relations inquire into the subject of settlements in the valley of the Congo river, Africa, and report such action as is necessary in furtherance of our commerce. A bill was passed permitting retired army officers to hold civil offices in the territories. Debate on the bill to establish civil government in the territories was adjourned. A bill to amend the act authorizing the secretary of state to issue bonds to the amount of $100,000,000, was introduced by the committee on foreign relations and passed.

The proposed legislation is filled with joy by the workingmen, and the different trade unions will send delegations to Annapolis to urge the passage of the bill.

Republican Campaign Committee.
WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 22.—At a meeting of the Republican congressional campaign committee the following executive committee was selected: Hawley, of Connecticut; Bishop, of New York; Allison, of Iowa; Washburn, of Minnesota; Peleg, of Indiana; Davis, of Mississippi; Miller, of Ohio; Gandy, of Pennsylvania; Pettibone, of Tennessee; O'Hara, of North Carolina. The executive committee is authorized to select its own secretary.

Notes.

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 22.—The controller of the currency has authorized the Clarendon National bank of Clarendon, Iowa, to commence business with a capital of $50,000.

The secretary of the interior has received a petition signed by poor old Wisconsin Indians of Nelsonska asking and they be allowed to take lands in severalty, and exercise the rights of citizens.

The house committee on appropriations has agreed to report favorably to the appropriation of an unestimated sum to be used under the direction of the president, in the search for the Greely party.

The house has passed a bill repealing the "clad" out.

A. S. Worthington has been nominated by President Arthur as district attorney.

THE HOURS OF LABOR.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 22.—Gov. McAdoo in his recent message to the Maryland legislature, among other clauses, recommended that the laws relating to the hours of labor for the men employed in the land offices along the line of the road as constructed by the Southern Pacific company.

The seven Huntington letters are reproduced, and laws are quoted to show that the Texas Pacific, in not constructing its road in the time required by law, did not possess the grant, hence could not transfer it to the Southern Pacific company. Under the grant the Texas Pacific company was required to commence the construction of its road simultaneously at San Diego, Cal., and from a point at or near Marshall, Tex., and to complete the entire road within ten years after the passage of the act, which was done in the time required. Passed Away.

NEW YORK, COMM., Jan. 22.—Com. Franklin A. Hart, United States navy, died in this city aged 70 years. He was sick four weeks with congestion of the kidneys. He was a member of one of the oldest and most prominent families in this city, and was the son of John Hart, a former large shipping merchant.

He was on duty on the ship Narragansett at the Pacific coast when the war of the rebellion broke out and was ordered east, and went duty as inspector of ordnance at Boston and other eastern ports. His funeral will occur on Thursday.

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 22.—Dr. John Peiley Leo died here, aged 80 years. He was a graduate of Yale, and afterwards was the head physician of the Massachusetts state hospital at Worcester.

Strong on Ex-Members.

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 22.—Mr. Anderson, of Massachusetts, submitted to the house the resolution respecting the admission to the door of the house of ex-members of congress.

The resolution proposes to amend the rules so as to require ex-members of congress, before being admitted to the privilege of the floor, to obtain an order from the speaker, which order shall only be issued upon the ex-member declaring upon his honor that he is not interested, directly or indirectly, in any corporation or person having a pecuniary interest in the defeat or passing of a measure before Congress or the committee, and pleading the while the house is in session will not communicate with any member respecting any claim which may affect the interest of any company, corporation, or individual, and having a direct interest in legislation. In case of the violation of this pledge, the committee on rules shall declare the ex-member forever deprived of the privileges of the door to the chamber and the floor.

How She Got Hit.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22.—In the court of error and terrier, Judge Thayer presiding, Catharine Donavan was put on trial for the murder of her husband, Timothy Donavan.

The allegation is that she, on the night of Sept. 1, last, went to her husband's room on September 1, last, and, under the influence of liquor, that his wife drove him out of the place and he requested shelter from a neighbor, but was refused; that his wife subsequently attacked him with a hatchet and beat him on the head with it.

Booth in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22.—After an absence of two years Edwin Booth has begun a two weeks' engagement here at the Walnut Street theatre. He is created by a unanimous audience, and the appearance during the rendition of "Richelieu" was superb. Mr. Booth is such a Philadelphia favorite that his first presence on that stage was the signal for a welcome which was so prolonged as to be almost embarrassing.

The Life-Saving Service.

WISCONSIN CITY, Jan. 22.—Mr. Kimball, general superintendent of the life-saving service, respecting the wreck of the City of Columbus says that the reason no assistance was rendered by the life-savers is that the steamer was beached the scene of the wreck, and that the life-savers which rendered assistance belonged to the Massachusetts Home Guard, and were manned with volunteer crews; that the coast of Massachusetts is regarded as very dangerous, and the number of life-saving stations allotted to it has always been considered inadequate, and that the lack of funds prevents the establishment of any more.

Two Cases of Interest Decided.

WISCONSIN CITY, Jan. 22.—Two cases of life-savers were decided by the United States supreme court. In that of the Sioux City & Pacific railroad company against the United States, it was decided that $11,000 taxes must be paid, the amount of interest on subsidey bonds not being deductible from earnings, it being in the nature of a sinking fund. In the case of the Excelsior Manufacturing company vs. East Bury & Co., a Missouri company, it was decided that the released patients on stores issued to Bury on February 1, 1875, was not infringing, and that the patients issued to Bury & Co. on September 16, 1875, are void because of statute of limitations.

Chance for the Younger Son.

LOXON, Jan. 22.—Lord Grosvenor, the son of the duke of Westminster, who is supposed to be the wealthiest nobleman in England, is dying of congestion of the lungs.

The Musical Condiment.

LOXON, Jan. 22.—The Turkish government has issued a circular to the European treaty powers in which the course of the Eddie of Egypt is allotted to in terms of its condemnation. The party also insists that the Soudan shall not be abandoned while our forces are sent to it.

Another Defender Gone.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 22.—Darius Whistler, 75, is dead. He was one of the old soldiers who successfully resisted the British in 1812.

Railway Receiver's Report.

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 22.—Van Wyck's resolution, which proposes that the further consideration of the Mexican treaty be left an open slate, will probably come before the Senate again. Senator Van Wyck and some other members of the body think it is right to consider treaties in the same way as the old foggy laws that directed it to be done. The resolution has been referred to a part of the city.

THE SOCIAL EVENT.

One Thousand Invitations to the Astor Ball in New York.

Description of a Brilliant Scene.—The Decorations and Dresses—Mrs. Astor—Some of the Guests.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The Astor ball was the greatest social event of the season. On entering the Astor mansion the portions of the room and galleries of music gave the most decided sense of a night of joy. Although it was only 10 o'clock, guests were arriving in unusual numbers for that hour. The knowledge that a thousand had been invited to the centennial ball of the Astor family perhaps had something to do with this, and the line of carriages was already long. The marble hall, which extends through the mansion to the ends of the two parlors, was beautiful with palms and rare ferns, while the wide staircase was decked with garlands of ivy looped up with crimson and yellow tulips. In the rooms beyond the entrance, the carvings on the walls were draped with crimson and studded with bunches of crimson tulips. The second floor was set aside for dressing-rooms. Two rooms on the same floor were fitted up for card-rooms. The floral decorations extended even to this floor, and palms were in the halls, while vases of dainty roses perfume the air. In the drawing-room presentation was made to the hostess, who was assisted by her two daughters, Miss Carrie Astor and Mrs. Coleman Dryden. Mrs. Astor looked superb in her toilet of white satin with a countess embroidery in roses tied with satin ribbons, and she wore diamond jewels. Miss Carrie Astor looked very pretty in sea-green satin with a lace collar, lace embroidered in violets with foil-wire silver cords. She wore lace bracelets or aqua of diamonds and a large bouquet of La France roses. Mrs. Coleman Dryden, who is tall and stately, with dark hair and eyes, wore white satin with a pretense train embroidered in roses.
